

PROJECT MANAGEMENT

The benefits of working with a range of experts.

The benefit of project management for the client is to have one main source throughout the process which alleviates the stress of organizing and coordination multiple people. When we take over as project managers, we consider it a successful project if the client is happy with the final result, but additionally that they found the process effortless from start to finish.

It may be called “Project Management” but in our eyes it’s more like “Project Collaboration”. Yes, we manage the project, and everyone involved in the process from start to finish. Yes, we find the right supplier for the task at hand, coordinate communications and work as your main point of contact. But no, we do not waltz in pointing fingers and telling people what to do. We treat everyone with the utmost respect.

We become the main source for interior designers, specialist trades such as electrical and mechanical services, painting, roofing, and flooring, HVAC experts, contractors, consultants, and any other parties involved in the project. We manage every aspect of the project from applying for building permits to demolition and disposal of building materials.

This approach leads to more effective production, creates value engineering, reduces mistakes, and maximizes the use of materials and procedures for a more cost-efficient process. Project Management allows you to get a speedy price estimate, cut down on overall completion time and reduces costs, without compromising quality.
